Rockefeller named vice president

President's pick subject to Congressional approval

COUNCIL EXAMINATION — Police Chief Rodman Scott opens a door of one of the newly-installed jail cells at the Washington C.H. Police Department for inspection by Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough, City Manager Dan Wolford and City Council chairman John E. Rhoads Monday afternoon. An open house has been scheduled at the new jail facilities from 1 until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Open house set Sunday at renovated city jail

Have you ever wondered what it's really like inside a jail cell?

Well, Washington C.H. area residents will be receiving an opportunity to have that question answered this weekend.

AN OPEN HOUSE and tours of the Washington C.H. Police Department's recently-completed jail renovation project will be conducted from 1 until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Area residents attending the four-hour open house will have the chance to be among the first to inspect the new $32,000 revitalization project which was completed late last week after more than one year of modernization.

City Manager Dan Wolford and City Council members Mrs. Bertha McCullough and John E. Rhoads inspected the completed improvements Monday afternoon in preparation for the public tours.

Prisoners will not be lodged in the remodeled facilities for approximately two weeks, according to Washington C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott.

Scott said preliminary inspections of the remodeled holding facility have been conducted by the Ohio Department of Health, but the health department must hold a final inspection before the housing of prisoners is actually permitted.

The $32,000 project has provided four two-bunk cells and a secured prisoner exercise and booking area, plus shower facilities. Two bunks are situated in the secured exercise area and all facilities inside the new jail cells are tamper proof.

A closed circuit television system, purchased by City Council several months ago, has been installed in the cellblock and booking areas.

The area formerly occupied by the ancient cage-type cells, has been remodeled for a storage area and offices for policemen.

HOWEVER, the area formerly housing the old-fashioned cells is not the only renovation inside police headquarters. All offices and regular working areas have been remodeled to provide a comfortable and modern working atmosphere for police officers.

Police Specialist William Robinson served as general foreman of the remodeling project and together with Police Sgt. Luther Anderson handled the bulk of the new jail cell installation. Although Robinson and Anderson were instrumental in the renovation project, all city police officers volunteered their off-duty time at one time or another in completion of the project.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today nominated Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president, saying the former New York governor will "make a great teammate."

The choice is subject to congressional approval, a virtual certainty.

Rockefeller said he was deeply honored at the call to serve Ford and "through him all the people of this great country."

Ford said he was confident Rockefeller will be approved by the required majorities in the House and Senate. "I wouldn't have picked someone who wouldn't be," the President said.

Ford presented Rockefeller in a nationally televised, Oval Office ceremony. Then he took his chosen partner to the White House press room, where Rockefeller, answering questions, said he assumes Ford will be a candidate for election to the presidency in 1976.

Rockefeller, 66, said he had not discussed the political future with Ford. Asked who he thought would be on the ticket with Ford in 1976, Rockefeller replied: "You're way down the road ahead of me."

Formally announcing the nomination, Ford said Rockefeller will be "a good partner for me and I think a good partner for our country and the world."

Then, in the press room, he added: "I think he'll make a great teammate. I think he will be good for the country. I think he'll be good for the world and

NELSON ROCKEFELLER

I'm looking forward to working with him."

At his brief news conference, Rockefeller, a member of one of the nation's wealthiest families, fended off questions about his personal finances, but said he will make whatever disclosures are required in the congressional confirmation process.

He refused to divulge his net worth at the news conference, bluntly telling questioners: "You're not the committee of Congress."

"I will do two things," he said. "I will conform totally with whatever the law requires and I will answer any questions members of Congress feel appropriate."

As for his vast holdings, he said he assumed they would be placed in trust.

Ford said the selection was "a tough call." Rockefeller said the President first contacted him directly Saturday — the day the White House dismissed published allegations that Rockefeller money had financed efforts to disrupt the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

Rockefeller said Ford told him Monday night that he was the choice for vice president.

From the time Richard M. Nixon resigned on Aug. 9, Rockefeller had been rated a prime prospect in vice presidential speculation.

His name and that of Republican National Chairman George Bush dominated the 11-day guessing game. Ford managed to keep his secret until the formal announcement.

Bush said the choice of Rockefeller was outstanding; that "one couldn't find a man of more stature and who

Trio being sought in death of U.S. ambassador to Cyprus

By The Associated Press

Warrants were issued in Nicosia today for the arrest of three persons in connection with the slaying of the U.S. ambassador to Cyprus, Rodger P. Davies.

Davies was killed during an anti-American riot at the embassy in Nicosia on Monday, and Greek, Turkish and Cypriot leaders expressed shock and abhorrence over the slaying.

The names of the three suspects and further details of the police investigation into the riot were not disclosed in an official Greek Cypriot government statement, announcing the issue of the warrants.

American sources in Nicosia said the U.S. Embassy in the battle-scarred Cypriot capital might be closed temporarily, and an official said unessential files were being burned "to make the job quicker if we decide to go."

But there was no indication from the State Department in Washington of any such action. Lindsay Grant, the embassy's second in command, was flown from a vacation in Scotland to replace Davies.

There were these other developments in the Cyprus situation:

—The civilian government in Greece increased its authority over the military by firing the commander in chief of the armed forces and his eight top officers and replacing them with foes of the ousted military junta.

—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Turkey had expressed willingness to negotiate a withdrawal from part of the 40 per cent of Cyprus its troops have occupied.

—Turkish troops that pushed south of Nicosia over the weekend held their positions but made no significant advances. Little fighting was reported Monday.

—The Turks in Famagusta handed over 150 Greek Cypriots to United Nations forces. Most were women, children and elderly men who had been left in the east coast port city when Davies was killed by sniper fire during a wild, anti-American demonstration by 300 to 600 Greek Cypriots who accused the U.S. government of siding with Turkey.

Bienn new president of city school board

Walter E. (Gene) Bienn, 417 Van Deman St., was elected president of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday night filling the position vacated by the resignation of James R. Wilson.

Immediately after administering the oath of office to two new board members, the voting for a new president was held. After taking his oath of office, Bienn, the former board vice president, opened the floor for nominations of a new vice president, and Robert Highfield was elected.

THE APPOINTMENT of new board members and officers were mandated by the resignation of former president Wilson and board member Phil Morrow. Wilson will soon be taking residence in the county, making him ineligible to serve on the city board, and Morrow is transferring to an Armclo Steel Corp. plant in Texas.

In a special meeting Monday morning, the board appointed James R. Hanawalt to fill Wilson's term which expires December, 1975. Jerry Shepard was appointed to replace Morrow whose term expires in December, 1977.

Bienn, a pharmacist at Risch's Pharmacy, 202 E. Court St., was first elected to the board in November, 1971.

GENE BIENN

He was elected to the post of vice president in January. He was the only nominee for the presidential position and was unanimously elected.

Highfield, who is serving his second four-year term on the board, served as president in 1972 and 1973. His current term expires in December, 1975.

Sabina suspect held in lieu of $20,000

WILMINGTON — A Sabina man is being held in Clinton County Jail, Wilmington, in lieu of $20,000 bond on a charge of attempted aggravated murder following an appearance in Wilmington Municipal Court Monday afternoon.

Ronald Dunn, 32, of 129 S. College St., Sabina, appeared in Wilmington Municipal Court Monday on the charge of Judge Frank B. Jandes set bond at $20,000 on the aggravated attempted murder count filed by Clinton County Sheriff Donald Osborn last Friday.

Dunn is scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing in Wilmington Municipal Court at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Dunn's wife, Betty, 28, was seriously injured in an automobile explosion and fire Sunday, Aug. 11. The explosion occurred in the car she was driving as she was turning onto College Street in Sabina about noon.

Mrs. Dunn remains in serious condition at Cincinnati General Hospital with burns over 90 per cent of her body. She was first taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, by the Sabina emergency squad, but later transferred to the Cincinnati hospital.

The charge against Dunn was lodged by Sheriff Osborn as the investigation into the cause of the explosion and fire was continuing by the Clinton County Sheriff's Department, the Sabina Police Department, the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, and the state fire marshal's office.

If convicted on the aggravated attempted murder charge, Dunn would face a minimum of four years to a maximum of 25 years in prison and a maximum fine of $25,000.

Strange incident ends here

Columbus residents held for robbery, abduction

CHILLICOTHE — A Columbus man and a young companion have been arrested on charges of armed robbery and abduction following a bizarre incident late Monday which ended in Washington C.H.

Ross County Sheriff's deputies said John Beine, 32, of Columbus, and a 15-year-old Columbus boy are being held in Ross County jail without bond on the two charges following the reported abduction of a young Bainbridge girl late Monday.

BEINE AND the 15-year-old youth were scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday afternoon in Chillicothe Municipal Court on the charges.

Authorities said Paula Knisley, 17, of Bainbridge, the alleged abduction victim, and two companions, Bill Ford, 19, Rt. 1, Lyndon, and Mike Immell, 20, Rt. 1, Lyndon, were visiting a roadside park about three miles west of Bainbridge at about 11:10 p.m. Monday when the strange incident occurred.

According to the report, Ford was in the car and Immell and Miss Knisley were in a nearby picnic shelter when a white 1966 model Mercury drove into the area.

Miss Knisley told deputies the driver exited and appeared to be headed to one of the restrooms in the roadside park. But instead, he quietly walked along a fence behind the picnic shelter where he held the two at gunpoint.

Deputies said Beine then took a wallet containing $8 in cash from Immell. He later returned the wallet to the youth.

Beine and his young companion then forced Miss Knisley into their car and headed toward Bainbridge. Immell and Ford chased the fleeing Beine to the intersection of Ohio 41 and U.S. 50, just outside Bainbridge and were able to obtain a license plate number.

Immell and Ford then contacted Bainbridge police officers, who notified the Ross County Sheriff's Department.

Miss Knisley told investigating officers the alleged abductors drove her to a wooded area near Latham in Pike

County. On the other hand, it can also be

Health plan compromise under study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee, taking a key step toward one of the year's major legislative goals, began considering a new compromise proposal for a multibillion-dollar health insurance program Monday.

It would include a labor-management health insurance arrangement with some cost-sharing features, an alternative program run by the states for the poor and unemployed, a catastrophic health insurance plan financed by new special taxes and a revised medicare program with more liberal benefits for the aged.

Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., pushing for his panel to reach a compromise in the aftermath of President Ford's recent call for action this year on long-stalled legislation for health care financing, said it appeared things are starting to jell.

After receiving the new proposal, which the panel's staff prepared at Mills' direction but which lacked specific sponsorship by anyone, Mills said he hopes his committee can finish its basic decisions this week so a bill can be drafted for action following the upcoming Labor Day recess.

Government bids to restore good relations with Greece

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is trying to smooth its relations with Greece while awaiting an undisclosed British initiative for setting up new Cyprus peace talks.

Britain, a guarantor of the 1960 treaty establishing the island's independence, is expected to sound out the Greek and Turkish Cypriots before enlisting U.S. aid and reviving the Geneva conference.

Knowledgeable U.S. officials believe Britain is likely to try to work out some preconference agreements so that when the parties, including Greece and Turkey, return to the negotiating table there are reasonable prospects of success. A breakdown in Geneva preceded the onslaught by Turkish forces that led to their control of about 40 per cent of Cyprus.

In a gesture to Athens, which strongly suspects Washington of having tilted toward Turkey, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference on Monday that "upon calmer reflection the responsible Greek leaders will recognize that the United States has shown deep sympathy for service officials" to examine ways to accomplish the objective Ford announced.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who has favored complete amnesty for those who opposed the war as a matter of conscience, called Ford's initiative "a fresh breeze from the White House."

"He's opening the door," said assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. "I think it's a courageous and appropriate move..."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said an approach to conditional amnesty is one of the measures he has urged on the White House.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said, "I think it was a very right thing to do...."

Some members of Congress said they expected Ford's announcement will lead to a revival of attempts to pass legislation offering a period of civilian service in exchange for amnesty.

Others said they believe only the President can offer amnesty but that Congress might be asked to express a formal opinion.

Sens. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., have had conditional amnesty legislation pending since 1971.

Their bill would grant amnesty to draft evaders willing to serve two years in either the armed services or in a civilian agency. The bill offers no relief to deserters.

Rep. William J. Scherle, R-Iowa, said: "I have sympathy and compassion but I've got to reserve that for

Charges studied in state scandal

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Mahoning County Prosecutor Vincent Gilmarin in Youngstown confirmed Monday that criminal cases involving diversion of upwards of $50,000 in state funds are being ready for a September grand jury.

The cases are connected with a scandal in the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation disclosed this week by the Dayton Journal Herald in a series of copyrighted articles.

Gilmartin said the cases involve "three or four" bureau employees who allegedly falsified bureau records to inflate the amount of money the state paid out.

The Journal Herald said in its editions today that State Auditor Joseph Ferguson's office violated Ohio law by failing to report a confession by a former bureau employee who admitted falsifying records to illegally obtain state funds.

A spokesman for the auditor's office denied the allegation.

"We found the article to be completely unfounded and almost libelous," said Steve Jay, information director.

"We think this was politically motivated," Jay said, adding the office believes political adversaries of the Gilligan administration "set the newspaper up as a pawn."

Democrats split over party rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — After two years of trying to settle their reform controversy, Democrats are back to the same kind of hair-pulling strife which tore the party apart in 1972.

Probably the last chance to salvage the party's reconciliation effort in time for the 1976 presidential year will come this December at the first mid-term Party Conference, a miniaturized version of the national convention.

It may be too late to restore unity for this year's elections in the wake of a walkout by blacks, women and white liberals from the final meeting of the Democratic Charter Commission on Sunday. They charged that party "regulars" were bent on an item-by-item overhaul of reform efforts.

The disenchanted reform wing left threatening to retaliate in the fall by withholding support from some Democratic candidates.

Although the party regulars outvoted the more avid reformers by three to one at the commission's closing session in Kansas City, the balance will be much closer at the conference in December.

Ironically, the blowup which derailed party chairman Robert S. Strauss' unity campaign was brought on by efforts to push through modifications he felt would avert just such a split.

The Strauss-backed changes were aimed at giving the reformers some of what they wanted but not enough to alienate the regulars who are still smarting over the McGovern Commission rules that kept many of them from the 1972 convention in Miami Beach.

But once the rollback got started and the regular-labor conservative bloc saw how much muscle it had, Strauss' lieutenants lost control and were unable to stop it.

The break-up of Strauss' rapprochement began over an article designed to open up the party and which contained the ghost of the 1972 quotas.

The black members protested when the regulars began chipping away at this article. The Kansas City commission voted to report four alternatives to the mid-term conference which must now make the painful choice.

Storms rake northern U.S.

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms rumbled across Montana today, just hours after tornadoes and other severe storms churned through sections of North Dakota.

The storms overturned a mobile home, damaged aircraft and farm buildings, flooded fields and washed out bridges near Braddock, N.D., as they moved from the center to the eastern part of the state Monday.

No injuries were reported. Tornadoes also were seen near Burnstad, Napoleon and Wishek, N.D. Heavy hail accompanied twister sightings near Lehr.

Winds gusting to 40 miles per hour hit Glasgow, Mont., today.

Mild thundershowers were widely scattered, stretching from the Northern Plains to Colorado, Nebraska and Minnesota.

"He's opening the door," said assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. "I think it's a courageous and appropriate move..."

Many congressional leaders agree with Ford that blanket immunity is not an appropriate remedy.

But many said that some form of conditional amnesty, probably alternative civilian service, is needed to end the voluntary exile of thousands of young men.

In a major shift in policy from the past two administrations, Ford told the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago on Monday that his administration proposes a policy of "earned re-entry."

Ford said, "As I reject amnesty, so do I reject revenge."

"In my judgment, these young Americans should have a second chance to contribute their fair share to the rebuilding of peace among ourselves..."

He said he had ordered Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to begin a case-by-case review of 50,000 men convicted, charged or sought for draft evasion or desertion.

Controlling board OKs funds for Xenia

by PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board released more than $1 million in assistance to tornado-stricken Xenia Monday and more is on the way.

Col. Frank Ruvio of the adjutant general's office said he believed the federal government would kick in with 75 per cent matching funds within two weeks after applications are solicited Sept. 3.

"That'll beat any other federal program we ever got into," said Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, a board member.

Among the Xenia-oriented releases: —$500,000 as the state's initial contribution to the individual and family grant program, to be matched by $1.5 million in federal money.

Grid coaching staff completed at city school board meeting

High school football captured the spotlight at the Washington C.H. Board of Education meeting two different times Monday night. One was during the hiring of coaches and discussion of the football program, the other concerned the release of a student to attend another high school.

The request for release to Chillicothe High School came from a football player who had been suspended for drinking this spring.

As the board considered contracts for fall personnel, two administrators were recommended, "with reservations," by Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor for coaching positions. He commented that although he was opposed to theory to administrators becoming tied to athletic coaching, he saw no other solution to the numerous openings in the coaching staffs.

HE OFFERED the appointment of Rodger Mickle as assistant varsity football coach and Don Gibbs, as ninth grade head coach, for consideration by the board.

Board members were reluctant to appoint Gibbs, a high school guidance counselor, as a coach, and even more reluctant to name Mickle who is the new principal at Eastside Elementary School.

The board felt that it would require too much of the time immediately after school when the administrators should

Indiana fair steer brings $4,200 bid

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana State Fair grand champion 4-H steer was sold Monday night for $4,200 to Ed Gossett, representing Ermco Electric Co.

The 1,250-pound champion steer, owned by Todd Cunningham of Kempton, went for $3.37 per pound.

Also featured in the annual 4-H spotlight livestock sale was a 107-pound crossbred lamb owned by Dennis McClammer of Greenfield. That went for $1,150, also to Ermco Electric, representing $10.75 per pound, a record.

Meritt L. Royalty of Franklin, Ohio, won the Superstock 5,000-pound tractor pull Monday. He pulled 57,000 pounds 166.11 feet.

Ron Barga of Ansonia, Ohio, won the Modified 9,000-pound class, pulling 61,000 pounds 251.6 feet.

Fayette County teams took first place in three of four divisions in the 4-H Bike-A-Thon in front of the Grandstand.

Fayette teams won the 25-lap senior girls division in 23:37.4, the 20-lap junior girls division in 18:31, and the 25-lap junior boys division in 21:37.3. A Brown County team won the 30-lap senior boys division in 26:22.8.

Pleads not guilty to kidnap charge

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A 27-year-old New Stark man pleaded innocent Monday to charges of kidnaping a 7-year-old girl.

Officers say they suspect Ed Bunch of picking up the child in a park at Rawson, southwest of Findlay, and driving around for three hours before releasing her unharmed.

Bunch is being held in the Hancock County Jail under $100,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing Aug. 27.

— $110,000 to expand the operations of the State Disaster Service Agency, which will assist storm victims who suffered serious loss.

— $300,559 for supplemental financial aid to Xenia city schools, replacing what the schools lost by the reduction in tax valuation as a result of the April 3, tornado.

— $402,325, transferred from other funds, to rebuild the Ohio National Guard Armory at Xenia, the money to be reimbursed by the federal government.

Gov. John Gilligan said the state contribution under the individual and family grant program will eventually reach $2.5 million, supplemented with $7.5 million in federal funds.

Ruvio estimated an estimated 2,000 individuals and families in Green County will be eligible for the money. The limit is $5,000 per family or individual.

The money will go to those who suffered serious loss, such as a home not covered by insurance or only partially covered.

The board released $82,050 for a study of the physical conditions of buildings on four university campuses, including $9,050 for Central State University, which suffered damage from the same storm that hit Xenia.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's request for $145,168 to reimburse counties for the expense of printing ballots and advertising three constitutional amendments for the May 7 ballot was jerked from the agenda by the Office of Budget and Management.

Deputy Director Robert Barrow said the request was improperly prepared because it didn't list the source of the money.

"We thought it was to come out of their operating budget," he said. "They intended to come out of someplace else. We've got to figure out where that someplace else is."

Other action approved by the board:

— Transfer of unallotted funds ($60,972) from fiscal year 1974 to fiscal year 1975, requested by the adjutant general's office for maintenance, repairs and utilities for the Army and Air National Guard.

— Release of the $63.4 million school foundation subsidy for August, a routine monthly release despite the amount involved.

— Expenditure of $787,000 by the Department of Highway Safety to New York Penal Industries for 2.1 million pairs of 1975 Ohio auto license tags. (Ohioans now having tags will use stickers in 1975. The new plates will be for new cars and tag replacements).

— Release of $1.8 million from the emergency compensation adjustment fund to finance increased payroll costs as provided in the August 1973 pay raise bill.

— Permit the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to draw in advance $13 million on revenue bonds to be sold early in 1975, the money to be repaid upon the bond sale.

— $330,000 for a coal and ash handling system at Gallipolis State Institute.

— $109,777 for the construction of three salt storage buildings in Ottawa, Putnam and Wood counties.

What to wear in court

In a time of great freedom as to personal style in what we wear, there is something ludicrous about judges fussing over the matter in court. As when, in Miami, Circuit Court Judge Don Satin found attorney Ray Sandstrom in contempt for declining to wear a tie. As when, in Albany, Ore., District Court Judge Carl Stanley excused Mrs. Linda Haggard from jury duty because he felt she should wear a dress rather than a pantsuit.

These are absurdities in the name of preserving the court's dignity. Neckties on lawyers give no assurance of dignity or decorum; the lack of neckties does not undermine the authority or dignity of the court. The case in Oregon is even more extreme: who could argue that a woman juror's wearing a pantsuit, an article of clothing in vogue for many years, was any sort of affront to the court?

Judges' concern with respect for the court is, of course, legitimate. It can be persuasively argued that the line must be drawn somewhere, lest lawyers and jurors and others appear shirtless and barefooted or bizarrely garbed. Surely the line is not overstepped, though, by lack of a tie in a semi-tropical city, or by a pantsuit in the jury box. We think it was the judges who overstepped.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Rebuilding our navy

Whenever President Ford mentioned foreign policy in his half-hour address to Congress, the applause was particularly emphatic. No matter what their feelings toward Richard Nixon, the Republicans, in common with many of the Democrats, seem determined to hang on to the one visible success of Nixon's five-and-one-half years in office.

With his eye on the history books, Nixon himself has staked everything on the future of the foreign policy he inaugurated. Throughout his resignation speech he clutched the word "peace" as if it were a life preserver. I was never one who considered that Nixon had any steadfastness or even understanding when it came to questions of economic philosophy. But the man did have one fixed star: he wanted to be Woodrow Wilson reincarnated as a force for global peace, and it never seemed to trouble him that Wilson, in pushing his quest, died a broken man.

THE NIXON-KISSINGER policy depends for its success on enough muscle to keep the Soviets and the Red Chinese from indiscriminate adventuring in Third World areas. We have had the requisite muscle to date. Despite some damaging SALT I concessions that give the Soviets a "throw-weight" nuclear power advantage, our atomic submarines and our multiple-headed missiles guarantee the so-called balance of terror for at least a few years to come. Luckily for everybody in the nation, Nixon and Kissinger included, the last "summit" in Moscow did not produce any agreements about SALT II that might further widen the nuclear gap. In the matter of conventional armament, our navy, though much of it is overaged, is still potent enough to control the lanes of the larger seas, even extending to the Indian Ocean. The Soviets, with the Suez Canal still closed and the entrances to the Mediterranean and the Baltic in foreign hands, might have difficulty servicing their navy far from home bases in the Black Sea and the Gulf of Finland.

Jerry Ford can keep the Nixon-Kissinger low-profile approach to maintaining the present world balance of power going provided he can halt the deterioration of our military muscle. A Senate committee is already making trouble for him by slicing $5 billion from the Pentagon budget. But Jerry Ford should have friends in Congress to restore the cut.

He has Admiral Elmo Zumwalt's warning to back any demands he may make. The year 1973, said Zumwalt, would be remembered as the year in which the Soviet navy forged ahead of the U.S. navy in "total numbers of major surface combatant ships."

Luckily, the Soviet quantitative superiority in surface ships cannot be dangerously concentrated until the Kremlin diplomacy has been successful in guaranteeing the future safe passage of such narrow waters as the Turkish Bosphorus and Dardanelles, the Suez Canal, the Straits of Gibraltar and the North and White Seas. We can still concentrate faster in every important area save the eastern Mediterranean (which could become a death trap for any surface navy) as long as the Panama Canal remains safe and the Suez is not abruptly turned over to the Soviets by a cowed Egypt.

But if Jerry Ford still has time to give Kissinger the proper power backing, there is no time to lose. We cannot afford to take any more cutbacks in naval strength. We must build, build, build to hold the seas. If we don't, the Nixon "peace" will go down the drain, and there will be nothing left of the one proud thing that the Republicans have managed to salvage from the Nixon years.

Butz speaks on pricing, production

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—For the first time in 40 years, agricultural production and food pricing have returned to their rightful functions in the marketplace, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz said today.

In remarks prepared for delivery at the Farm Focus-USA show near here, Butz said consumer demand, both at home and in export markets abroad, is setting goals and prices for agricultural production.

"No longer is it the policy of the United States to follow an artificially cheap food policy through the subterfuge of payments to farmers," Butz said.

He said the Agricultural Act of 1970 and the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 changed the entire approach to food policies.

Butz said under the current administration's leadership, the "world is beginning to understand food as a powerful weapon for peace."

"Food is critical to the stability of political governments, to the growth of national economies and to fulfilling the aspirations of people," Butz said.

Farmers and agricultural leaders from other nations have been seeking the key to more prosperous agriculture in their own lands from this country for years, Butz said.

But the ingredient they may have failed to import, Butz said, is "the managerial capacity firmly rooted in the philosophy of incentive through the marketplace."

Butz said these incentives provide an "impressive potential for growing more food worldwide."

"The key," the nation's agriculture chief said, "is giving the world's farmers the incentive to make the success happen, with the prospect for profit for themselves and their families."

Bangladesh's rice destroyed by rain

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer

SUNAMGANJ, Bangladesh (AP) — Two months of floods have demolished most of the summer rice harvest in Bangladesh, already critically short of food.

The farmers of this township about 160 miles northeast of Dacca saw their summer crop destroyed and their winter seedlings ruined by floodwaters twice, as the water came, receded and returned.

Saiful Islam, the 29-year-old subdivision officer for Sunamganj, said his people are waiting for the water to recede again to plant their seedlings a third time.

"We still hope to get the winter crop, but if there is more flooding you can write off the whole area," he said.

Behind him, workers unloaded loaves of bread, enriched with extra sugar and salt, heliographed from Dacca to feed the 1.2 million inhabitants of Sunamganj subdivision.

The 71 million inhabitants of Bangladesh have always faced floods at monsoon time, when waters from the Indian highlands drop through the Bengal Delta into the Bay of Bengal.

But this year the floods surpassed their usual fury, covering uncounted acres of rice paddies.

Relief and Rehabilitation Minister Abdul Momin calculates he needs 750,000 extra tons of grains from abroad to feed the people until the winter harvest in December.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NEVER TRUST THE ADVICE OF A MAN IN DIFFICULTIES. — AESOP

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

No dinner at the captain's table

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 49, a wonderful man in all respects, and I deeply love him.

I am 43, but I'm told I look a lot younger. Not to brag, but I'm also attractive.

Living in our apartment building is a handsome, 40-year-old Army captain. (He's a bachelor.) My husband travels a lot, and this bachelor told me if I ever got bored or lonely when my husband is away, I should call him and he will invite me over for a gourmet dinner. (He belongs to a gourmet club and loves to cook.)

So far I haven't taken him up on it, but I've thought about it. I've been a faithful wife all these years and have no intentions of being otherwise. I told my husband about this captain's invitation, and he said: "I don't like the idea. It's not that I don't trust you, but I wouldn't trust any man alone with a beautiful woman. Also, I don't want to give the neighbors anything to gossip about."

Abby, shouldn't a woman my age be allowed to do what she wants to do? CS

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: A woman of any age should be allowed to do what she wants to do. However, even though the captain's "gourmet dinner" is 100 per cent kosher, and he has a good conduct medal to match yours, if your husband doesn't like the idea, don't pursue it. If you're lonely in your husband's absence, get off the fence and go with a group. There's safety in numbers.

DEAR ABBY: I've often considered writing to you about this, but then I would think: "It's too silly!" Now, I've had it.

We share a duplex house with two of the warmest, kindest people in the world. They are always so nice. That's the trouble, they are TOO nice!

When the mister cuts his grass, he cuts ours, too. I know this is silly, but it bugs me. I like to cut my own grass! I've told him not to bother, that I would do it in the evening, but then he says: "That's all right. I already have my lawn mower out."

Abby, I've gone out and started mowing my lawn, and he has the never to come over, shut my mower off and say: "Now, you go tend your baby, and let me do this." (They have no children and are quite a bit older than we are.)

Abby, I truly like this sweet old neighbor, but he is carrying a good deal too far. How can I tell him?

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

DEAR KEEP: Tell him that you WANT to cut your own grass because you NEED the exercise. Now what warm, kind, sweet old neighbor would deprive you of your exercise?

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Angry" asks: "Do I have the right to complain?"

Her question caused me to recall what the late William Ernest Hocking wrote in his Types of Philosophy:

"Anyone can complain, but to see precisely what is wrong is a gift; accurate diagnosis comes from a unique power of vision and indicates the likelihood of equally unique capacity to remedy the fault."

Abby, you have both!

ARTHUR H. PRINCE

DEAR MR. PRINCE: I like the quote, but jeepers, what an extravagant compliment! Isn't there enough inflation in the world without adding another swelled head?

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 20, the 232nd day of 1974. There are 133 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1791, a Danish navigator, Vitus Bering, discovered Alaska.

On this day: In 1776, George Washington eluded the British in Brooklyn, N.Y., and moved his army across the East River to Manhattan in dense fog.

In 1833, the 23rd American president, Benjamin Harrison, was born in North Bend, Ohio.

In 1914, during World War I, German forces occupied Brussels, Belgium.

In 1941, in World War II, the Russians blew up their Dnieper Dam as German troops swept across the Ukraine.

In 1955, hundreds were killed in antiFrench riots in Morocco and Algeria.

In 1961, the East Germans were busy building a wall along most of the 25-mile border between East and West Berlin.

See rise in labor costs coming

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The cost of labor in relation to industrial sales during the past few years has remained considerably below that of the 1960s. But it might end this year.

The ratio perplexes a good many people who note, for example, that unit labor costs last year rose 1.4 per cent in manufacturing and 5 per cent for all nonfarm businesses. Why, then, shouldn't the cost of labor percentage rise?

The explanation lies in sharply higher sales and output per manhour at the very time that controls kept labor's gains below their rate of earlier periods.

The annual labor cost study by Standard & Poor's, the investment research organization, shows that wages-salaries-fringe benefits accounted for 25.6 per cent of each dollar of industrial sales in 1973.

A year earlier the percentage was 26.4, and in 1971 it amounted to 25.9 per cent, but throughout the sixties it never dropped below 26, and more often ranged between 27 and 28.

Stock market analysts, among others, find such statistics highly useful in assessing the impact of changes in wages on specific industries and companies.

For example, when wage increases are general throughout the economy some industries find the impact far more pronounced than do others.

The oil industry, to illustrate, is highly automated, with labor costs amounting last year to only 9 per cent of sales. But for air transportation the equivalent figure was 40 per cent.

Here are a few others: Aerospace and aircraft, 37 per cent; automobiles and trucks, 31; meats and dairy products, 13; electrical-electronics, 38.

The figures for individual companies within these industries varies almost as much as between industries. In aerospace, the percentages range from 27 to 45, and in oil from 6 to 23.

However, indications are that the trend will end this year, a legacy of the removal of controls and a feeling among labor leaders that unions must make up for past restraints.

Economic fears are providing an incentive for labor to secure what it feels is a fairer share of the sales dollar, either through direct wage increases or fringe benefits.

Rhodes hits Gilligan on schools

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former governor James A. Rhodes blamed Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan for "the deepening financial crisis" in Ohio schools because he did not announce a state fund surplus earlier.

Rhodes, in his campaign to resume the governorship, appeared at a news conference here Monday. Rhodes, a Republican seeking his third term in the governor's mansion, said Democrat Gilligan could have averted a financial crisis that led to a strike by Cincinnati teachers in April.

"With sound fiscal management," Rhodes said, "the closure of Cincinnati schools for three days in April could have been avoided. The issue was money. As it turned out, the amount was $2.5 to $3 million."

"Monday needed to head off the work stoppage was available in Columbus," said Rhodes, noting the $80 million income tax surplus announced in June.

"The Gilligan administration simply neglected to inform the Cincinnati board that the money was available," said Rhodes, adding that the Ohio Legislature "forced" Gilligan to give schools $20 per pupil.

Rhodes said another $30 per pupil should be granted to school systems now from an impending $100 million surplus.

Lottery round tickets sales and today

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ticket sales for the Ohio lottery's first drawing Thursday end today, with the next round beginning immediately.

Agents had a deadline of 11 a.m. today for turning in funds from tickets sold in the first round and they could pick up tickets for the second drawing at the same time.

Eleven million tickets have been printed for the second round. There were 14 million tickets available for the first round, which spanned more than one week each subsequent round will last.

A spokesman for the Ohio Lottery Commission said that $20 winners will get their money immediately upon presentation of the winning tickets after Thursday's 10 a.m. drawing but that those winning $500, $1,000 and the biggest money in the "Buckeye 300" drawings later will be paid by check through the mail.

He said those who can't be present for the Buckeye drawings can designate a substitute or can take advantage of the commission's offer to have a state employee as a stand-in.

The first "Buckeye 300" drawing will be at 10 a.m. Aug. 29 on the steps of the Capitol building in Columbus. Prizes will range from $15,000 to $300,000 with each of the 10 eligible being assured of at least $15,000, the spokesman said.

He added that those eligible will get the $15,000 on the spot by check but that "$15,000 is the biggest check we make out."

"If he wins $300,000, he gets plunk-a-check for 15 grand every year for 20 years," the spokesman said.

Packaging film brings costly suit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A $24 million class action suit has been filed against two Ohio based firms that make polyvinyl chloride packaging film, which a medical study has linked to serious respiratory ailments.

The suit was brought by Florine Schultz of Brunswick, a former Pick'n Pay Supermarket meat wrapper and named as defendants the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Akron and Borden Chemical Co. of Columbus.

A spokesman for Goodyear said, "Although we have not been favored with a copy of the complaint, we are prepared to vigorously defend this type of suit."

Borden could not be reached for comment.

Attorney Lawrence Landskroner, who filed the suit Monday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, said, "There is medically proved evidence that polyvinyl chloride causes cancer and other serious deleterious effects on the human body."

The suit seeks $1 million for each of the 284 meat wrappers employed in Pick'n Pay's 71 supermarkets in Greater Cleveland.

Rain little help in corn production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says rains so far this month have not boosted prospects for larger corn production from an estimate made as of Aug. 1.

"Rainfall during the first half of August over much of the Plains and Corn Belt states apparently did not promote significant gains in corn production, although soybeans could benefit from the moisture," the department said Monday in a special report.

Officials described the analysis as a "quick mid-month review" based on reports from field offices of the department's Statistical Reporting Service. The analysis did not include surveys of farmers or actual examinations of crops in fields.

The department said rainfall and temperatures this month have been favorable enough to support the USDA estimate of corn production as of Aug. 1 indications.

On Aug. 12, the department estimated that 1974 corn production — based on surveys the first of the month would total 4.97 billion bushels. That would be down 12 per cent from the record 1973 harvest of more than 5.64 billion bushels and far below a projected indication of 6.7 billion bushels earlier this year.

Officials noted that both corn and soybeans were planted late last spring and that crop development gains as the result of recent rain might be cut short by killing frosts in the fall.

Perk opposes choice of Rocky

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, candidate for the U.S. Senate, said he is opposed to the nomination of Nelson Rockefeller for vice president because of Rockefeller's "pro-abortion stand."

Perk, campaigning here Monday, said he sent a telegram to President Gerald Ford opposing Rockefeller's possible nomination.

"I respectfully urge you not to appoint former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller as vice president because of his pro-abortion record in New York State,

"Soybeans may benefit from the August rains, but any increased output from new growth also will depend upon the killing frosts as well as normal precipitation the rest of the growing season," the report said.

The department's next official estimate of crop production is scheduled to be announced Sept. 11, based upon conditions as of the first of the month.

Perk opposes choice of Rocky which was even prior to the regrettable U.S. Supreme Court ruling," Perk's telegram said.

"I believe the most basic civil right is the right of life, itself, and am on record in support of a pro-life amendment to the U.S. Constitution."

The word "taxicab" was coined in New York. "Taxi" came from a French word for carriage; cab abbreviated the French word for cabriolet, a light, one-horse carriage.

Traditional amethysts ward off evils of drink

huge stone in modern gold setting. A petaled amethyst is at right. A bracelet set with cabochon amethyst stones highlights the right photograph. A carved amethyst ring and top-grade, deep purple stone cut in the antique manner are equally royal in feeling. Sales of amethysts, many of which are imported Brazilian gemstones, are rising in the United States. Photographs are from H. Stern.

Miss Coe has asked Miss Susan Boyer to be maid of honor, and Mrs. Roger Spahr and Miss Pam Straley the bridesmaids.

Thomas Perry will serve as best man. Seating the wedding guests will be Roger Spahr and R. Daniel Coe, brothers of the bride-elect and the groom to be.

An open reception for the couple will take place following the marriage at the church. Hostesses will be members of the Martha Reedy class. A family reception will be held in the home of the bride's parents.

New swine exhibits building to be dedicated on Thursday

COLUMBUS — The dedication of the new swine exhibits building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds is scheduled for 9 a.m. on Thursday, the opening day of the 1974 state fair.

Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan will join general manager Vic Lucas and members of the Ohio Expositions Commission for the dedication ceremonies of the $1.3 million building, considered the most modern swine facility of any fair in the nation.

The beautifully landscaped steel structure is totally enclosed and measures 250 feet by 315 feet, and includes 723 pens and a large show ring on a concrete floor, according to Donald P. Woods, of Washington C.H., a member of the Ohio Exposition Commission.

The building will also feature a 12

Shipyard for sale

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — The firm which built the only two 1,000-foot super-freighters now plying the Great Lakes is up for sale.

Erie Marine constructed Bethlehem Steel Company's "Stewart Cort" and the Litton Company's barge "Presque Isle."

The offer to sell the firm comes at a time when shippers have placed orders for eight other 1,000-foot vessels. But none of the eight vessels currently on the drawing boards would be built at Erie.

Instead, contracts have gone to the American Ship Building Co. of Lorain, Ohio, and the Bay Shipbuilding Corp. of Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

A spokesman for Erie said his company "just couldn't get together with buyers on costs and schedules" and failed to land contracts for any of the new ships.

Immediately following the fair, the offices and dormitories will be air-conditioned and a farm-city exhibit area will be completed.

The new building, located in the southwest corner of the grounds, will utilize three lighting systems, including mercury vapor lamps and night lights and battery-operated emergency lights.

The swine exhibits building replaces the previous structure which was destroyed by fire in Oct. 1972.

Auctioneer day set at Ohio State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 2,500 auctioneers and apprentices are expected to be admitted free to the Ohio State Fair on Aug. 23 as part of Ohio Auctioneer Day.

Many will be competing for a $300 first prize in the state fair auctioneer contest designed to select the best auctioneer for ability, speed and style, said Fair Manager Victor Lucas.

Cash awards will total $800, he said, and trophies will be awarded to the top 10 winners.

Across the midway, youngsters from across the United States will be competing in three days of rounds in the National Amateur Boxing Tournament Aug. 22-24.

Forty champions, ages 10 to 25, will be crowned at the end of the tournament, billed as the world's largest amateur boxing contest.

High speed chases and bonejarring crashes will enliven the grandstand Aug. 30 during two performances by the Dan Fleenor Auto Thrill Show.

The two-hour shows will include the motorcycle "Leap of Death" over a row of parked cars, the "Slide for Life," where a daredevil drops from the rear of a speeding car, and a ramp-to-ramp leap 60 feet through space in a new car.

More than $3,500 will be offered in cash prizes in the state fair tractor pull set for Aug. 30-31.

Two tracks will be operated simultaneously this year to speed the competition, Lucas said.

Winners in each class will win $500, he said.

The Ohio Folk Festival will feature continuous craft and food demonstrations on the lawn of the Arts and Crafts Building.

"One of the most interesting demonstrations should be the auto body repair exhibit. Such work is now considered a 20th century art form and has developed into a real handicraft," Lucas said.

Bringing the fair to a death-defying conclusion Labor Day is scheduled to be motorcycle stuntman "Super Joe" Einhorn. Einhorn originally was scheduled to attempt a 16-car leap, but told fair officials early this week he had been injured while performing and only would be attempting a 10-car leap in Ohio.

Einhorn reportedly will make the leap while wearing a leg cast and an arm sling.

Is tight money inflationary?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While a tight monetary policy, such as exists now, is supposedly designed to bring down prices, a good many businessmen suspect it really adds to their expenses and therefore to their prices.

Could such a situation really exist? Is it possible that some of the nation's most respected economic minds could actually miscalculate so completely the impact of their decisions?

Perhaps there never will be a clear-cut answer. But some interesting observations are being made day after day by some perplexed non-economists.

The most common of them is this: If high interest rates are the enemy of inflation, why do these two aspects of our current economy seem to fit so neatly together, one rising with the other?

Another: If high interest rates are supposed to discourage borrowing and spending, how long are we supposed to wait for this to happen? Shouldn't we be seeing the impact by now?

The fact is that business, rather than being discouraged, is continuing to borrow at the high rates. Some respected financial analysts now foresee the prime lending rate remaining close to 12 per cent for several more months.

One reason for this continued borrowing is that corporations have found the equity markets to be, temporarily at least, an unreliable source of funds. Stock market investors are inactive. Stock prices are depressed.

At least one reason for Wall Street's anemia, of course, is the drainage of funds from stocks into debt issues, which carry those highly desirable high interest rates — a direct effect of tight money.

And so the corporations also have to go where the money is. They are forced to borrow, and at such high rates, some Wall Streeters point out, that the effect on corporations will last for years.

That is, those high rates that big companies are paying represent commitments for years ahead. They will add to the cost of business for years ahead. They will be passed on as higher prices for years ahead.

No wonder, then, that businessmen who pay these rates question the nation's anti-inflation policy.

President Ford attempts to stare down inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — The best news that President Gerald Ford could receive would be a decrease in the rate of inflation.

That he isn't likely to receive such news in the next few weeks is pretty well understood, especially since the inflation drought is likely to push up food prices.

And so the President, in the absence of "natural" marketplace restraints on inflation, is planning a new Cost of Living task force that he hopes will stare down big wage, price, profit and interest increases.

The task force would have no en-

Indian craft center found at Bainbridge

BAINBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Archeology students from Ohio State University are uncovering the remains of an apparent ancient Indian craft center that they say is different from three structures excavated here earlier.

Raymond Baby, curator of archaeology for the Ohio Historical Society and director of the student excavations, said that unlike the first three structures found at Seip Mound here, the stones composing this center showed no evidence of having been heated.

The first three excavations produced numerous bits of mica and small flint tools which showed evidence of having been heated, Baby said.

He said Hopewell Indians apparently used the structures about 2,000 years ago to make ornaments from mica.

The archeologists said they believe their latest discovery may once have been a drainage pit for some process in which water was used.

The structure contains a row of five limestone-filled pits about two feet in diameter up to three feet deep.

One possibility, Baby said, is that this house was used in washing vegetable fiber. Microscopic tests will be made of material from the pits.

The archeologist said an excavation crew will dig out a large pit in the center of the house in hopes of learning more about the purpose of the structure.

At least seven structures are known to have existed close together in front of the ancient mound at this state memorial. Ditches dug last fall turned up locations of three not yet excavated.

Seek venue change for slaying trial

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — One of two men accused in the July 17 fatal shooting of Patrolman David Cole Monday sought a change of venue in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Ricardo Woods, 24, of Cincinnati, citing newspaper clippings, said he could not get an unprejudiced trial in the city.

The other man charged with Woods is Roland Reaves, 23. Both are charged with aggravated murder of a policeman and could face the death sentence.

QUICK WATER WEIGHT LOSS With A "Natural" Water Pill

NEW ODRINIL, a natural "water pill," can help you lose excess weight, uncomfortable body bloat (puffiness in ankles, arms, stomach) due to excess water retention during pre-menstrual cycle.

ODRINIL is a gentle diuretic compound containing natural herbs in a tablet that is effective and fast acting. Helps eliminate excess water usually caused by pre-menstrual bloat.

ODRINIL "Golden Water Pill" are guaranteed to help you lose that uncomfortable water bloat and temporary weight gain or your money will be refunded. No questions asked. ODRINIL is sold with this guarantee by:

forcement powers other than moral persuasion, a call to patriotism, a plea for patience. And to some battle-hardened executives, landlords and union leaders, these are no restraints at all.

Argus Research Corp., which wholesales economic and market research to many of the big investment institutions, looks at voluntarism this way:

"The effectiveness of voluntarism is a subject that is hotly debated by economists. In our opinion, however, a voluntary program to restrain prices and wages amounts to little more than political cosmetics.

"It does have the effect of projecting an executive image of the President, and provides some sort of psychological values for those who favor a policy of 'doing something' about inflation. But its impact is limited."

Lionel D. Edie & Co., an economic research arm of Merrill Lynch, the world's biggest stock brokerage house, gives its reason why:

"America's economic policy machinery simply cannot control the weather, the Arabs, or the super-inflationary economic policies of countries like Japan, Italy, and the United Kingdom.

"These have been major causes of today's rip-roaring, double-digit inflation, and the tragic weather story that has come out of the Midwest is apparently going to keep it that way well into next year."

If you believe these analyses, then, you must conclude that while the President has little choice but to act or give the appearance of action, against inflation, his efforts are likely to be unrewarded.

While it works well at the community level, voluntarism is widely thought to need power to back it on the national level. That has been the experience of previous presidents in relying on voluntary restraints.

Among the power techniques used were charges that the offender was hurting the country; releasing stockpiles of government goods to compete with the offender's product; encouraging consumers to shun the offender's wares.

What backing President Ford plans isn't known, but he has declared himself to be against subpoena powers in wage and price studies. Such authority, a spokesman said, would be the first step to rigid controls.

Nevertheless, Ford likely will find himself compelled to back up his call for voluntary restraints with an effective plea or a resort to some form of power. That is, if he plans to rely heavily on voluntarism.

U.S. soybean production drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reduced 1974 U.S. soybean crop will have a major effect on world supplies of vegetable oil and meal next year, but larger production of oilseeds and protein meal in some other countries will help offset the decline, an Agriculture Department expert said today.

World output of oilseeds and meal is expected to total about 63.8 million metric tons for the 1974-75 year, which includes the U.S. soybean crop soon to be harvested. That would be down sharply from 66.2 million tons last season, which included the record 1973 U.S. soybean harvest.

Alan E. Holz, an analyst in the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, said the production decline will be mitigated to some extent by a larger U.S. soybean reserve this fall, meaning it will help serve as a buffer in the year ahead.

The department estimated a week ago that U.S. soybean production will be slightly more than 1.3 billion bushels — 35.7 million metric tons — compared with a record 1973 crop of nearly 1.57 billion bushels or 42.6 million tons.

Holz noted that the U.S. soybean reserve now is about 160 million bushels, up sharply from 60 million carried over to the new crop year last Sept. 1. Officials estimate, however, the stockpile will shrink to between 50 million and 100 million bushels a year from now.

Another factor, Holz said, has been poor weather in India where the peanut crop has been reduced sharply from last year's harvest of 6 million tons to an estimated 5 million.

"Elsewhere, however, the outlook is for further production improvement," Holz said in a weekly foreign agriculture report.

He said rising soybean production in Brazil, larger Peruvian fishmeal production, an increase in Soviet Union sunflower seed output and larger quantities of palm oil from Malaysia would help with overall world oil and meal requirements.

Holz said soybean production in Brazil — lately second only to the United States as a producer-exporter — is continuing to grow and that the crop next year could climb to 8 million tons or 293.6 million bushels. Brazil's 1974 crop was 6.8 million tons, equivalent to 249.5 million bushels.

Although Brazil's soybean production ranks with U.S. output of about 20 years ago, it has come on fast as a crop and a major export item for that country.

Holz said Peru's fishmeal industry, which failed severely a year or two ago and helped trigger record jumps in protein meal prices, is recovering and through the first six months of this year had produced 540,000 tons of meal. In January-June last year, output was 423,000 tons.

Adding it all up, Holz said, the U.S. soybean supply should be enough to meet requirements in the year ahead, both for domestic and export needs.

"It is, nonetheless, still too early to accurately assess the final outcome of foreign and U.S. crop output in 1974-75, and estimates are thus subject to a rather wide margin of error," Holz said.

Tough road ahead for NFL negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League Players Association strike entered its 51st day today and the toughest negotiating appears to lie ahead for the players and owners.

John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, bargaining arm of the clubs, said Monday the owners and the Players Association still have substantial differences.

"I wish I could say I was optimistic," said Thompson, looking somewhat worn after the latest round of negotiations which ended Saturday with a new offer from the players—which was immediately rejected by the owners.

Thompson said there are about 10 issues still separating the two sides but described them as the "toughest, gut issues," in the conflict.

One major area of disagreement remains the length of the contract. The players' last offer was for a short pact running only for the duration of the 1974 season and expiring Jan. 31. The owners, obviously, would prefer a longer term.

"We seek a long-term contract so that we can settle the game and return normalcy to it," said Thompson. "Frankly, we think the game can't stand another year like we've been going through. It has had a substantial impact on the economics of the game."

Thompson said the strike had cost the owners approximately $500,000 in pre-season income.

"Before negotiations began," said Thompson, "our individual player contracts were up an average of 35 per cent because of the emergence of the World Football League. That is an estimated $17 million more than one year ago for regular season payrolls. That money, going directly from the clubs to the players, makes it difficult to meet the union's collective demands. The strike itself has reduced income and increased the money gap."

Football report

Monday marked the beginning of contact drills at the training sites of Washington Senior and Miami Trace high schools.

Blue Lions' mentor Maurice Pfeifer reported 42 players dressed for the workouts. Four players, three of which were injured, missed the first day of contact. Only one of the three injured players suffered his injury during practice.

"This is probably the littlest team in the history of the school," remarked Pfeifer. The Lions, who stress weight

Roger Smith winner of trapshoot rounds

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—Roger Smith, 33, said with a laugh, "Maybe I should go home now and say I came to the Grand and never missed a target."

Smith, a data processing manager for an aircraft company in Wichita, Kan., has broken 450 targets since he started shooting in the 75th annual Grand American Trapshooting tournament on Sunday.

He said, "That's pretty good for the first time here, but it's something I wanted bad."

Smith has won two titles with his string of consecutive 16-yard targets, taking the Dayton Homecoming in the carryover from Sunday's tie and winning the Class AA championship Monday.

Senior citizens day planned at Hillsboro

HILLSBORO — Senior Citizens Day will be Sept. 4 at the Highland County Fair. A variety program will be presented by the senior citizens and special recognition will be given to the oldest person there. The couple celebrating the most anniversaries will be crowned king and queen. Others to receive recognition include couples married 50 or more years; couples married 60 or more years; and those with the most children. Members of the Senior Citizens Center will have a booth and will sponsor a restaurant.

LONDON — The petition for improvement of the North Fork Ditch of Paint Creek struck a snag at the hearing of the Madison County Board of Commissioners. The snag is the uncertainty surrounding three Columbia Gas of Ohio Co. lines, which — if the project is approved — will have to be lowered. The cost of lowering them is estimated at $250,000; the question now awaiting a decision is: Will the company or land owners foot the bill? The hearing was continued.

WILMINGTON — Charles McKee, 20, of Columbus, was admitted to Clinton Memorial Hospital Sunday with stab wounds in his abdomen, allegedly inflicted by his brother-in-law, Victor Watson, 24, of 1147 Brownberry Dr. Police said Watson and his wife were arguing in their apartment when McKee knocked on the door and asked Mrs. Watson to come out. Instead, Watson grabbed a knife from the kitchen table, police said, and stabbed McKee in the abdomen.

CAREY, Ohio (AP) — Pilgrims from all over the United States and Canada are gathering by the thousands this month at the 100-year-old national Catholic Shrine, Our Lady of Consolation Minor Basilica, here to celebrate the Feast of the Assumption.

Many immigrants from the Middle Eastern, Baltic and other European countries, the pilgrims come to the shrine to make confessions and hear the Mass repeated in their native language.

During the height of the pilgrimage season in August, masses are said in Italian, Maronite, Polish, Slovak, Croatian, Spanish, Melkite, Byzantine, Hungarian and other languages.

The Young Friends (15-20) attended part of the business sessions and also held their own sessions with special speakers. Several of the young Friends stayed at Quaker Knoll Camp during the meeting.

GREENFIELD — New 1974 telephone directors are now being distributed to General Telephone Co. subscribers in the Greenfield and Leesburg area. Tom R. O'Neil, customer service manager, suggested that the old directory be checked for notes and numbers sometimes left in it before throwing it away.

CHILLICOTHE — Revenue from the city's experimental paper recycling program took another drop this month and officials are considering the feasibility of continuing the program. The monthly collection of old newspapers and magazines last week netted $143.99, the city service manager said. The July collection netted $168.72, the June collection $187.84 and the first collection in May $42.93.

CHILLICOTHE — Plans for expansion of the Ross County Airport have been completed and bids for the project will be opened Sept. 3. The expansion calls for an addition 700-foot runway and more airport landing lights.

think sometimes they put my faith to shame. They have a wonderful way of combining a love of life with their strong faith in God."

The friar noted that the pilgrims bring their culture and customs with them. There is dancing and singing in the streets to complement solemn candlelight processions, he said.

The shrine sits on the grounds of a 30-acre park with landscaped lawn and many shade trees and shrubs. The park is filled with religious statues and grottos donated by pilgrims and friends of the shrine.

A marble and granite altar supporting a replica of the image of Our Lady of Consolation dominates the street to complement solemn candlelight processions, he said.

The original shrine was established by the Rev. Joseph P. Golden at the mission of Carey which then was attached to his church of St. Nicholas at nearby Frenchtown.

From 1868 until 1918 thousands of pilgrims made their way to pray at the hand-carved altar still in use at the original shrine. The influx of pilgrims soon outgrew the shrine church and construction of a new, larger church was begun in 1904 and completed in 1921.

JUVENILE SHIFT EYED

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—U. S. District Judge William K. Thomas has continued until Sept. 23 a hearing on a suit to transfer juvenile offenders at the Ohio Reformatory at Mansfield to the Indian River School for Juveniles near Massillon.

Robert C. White, superintendent of the reformatory and its youth program, testified Monday that 35 juvenile offenders at the reformatory were too dangerous to transfer to the Indian River facility.

The transfer had been agreed to two years ago in a suit filed in U.S. District Court by the Legal Aid Society to force the state to separate and remove juvenile delinquents from adults at the reformatory.

White said the Indian River school is not a maximum security prison and cannot handle the more disruptive delinquents remaining at Mansfield.

In December 1972 state prison officials agreed to transfer all 170 juveniles at Mansfield to Indian River.

South Solon man sentenced here for gas theft

A young South Solon man arrested by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies Sunday night for the theft of some 15 gallons of gasoline pleaded guilty and was sentenced in Municipal Court Monday.

Richard L. Miller, 19, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100. Judge Reed M. Winegardner suspended 20 days of the jail sentence, pending good behavior.

Miller and a 16-year-old companion were seen driving away from the parking lot of the Sugar Creek Stone Quarry, Ohio 41-S. The car was stopped by Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise whose investigation indicated that the two had taken gasoline from one of the trucks on the lot, and both were charged.

The younger suspect was cited into the Fayette County Juvenile Court, but Judge Rollo Marchant indicated that the case will most likely be transferred to Madison County juvenile authorities.

Opening lead - five of spades.

Let's assume you're in three notrump and West leads a spade. East covers dummy's queen with the king and you win with the ace.

There is a strong temptation to play a club to the queen at this point — since your most promising suit is clubs — but it is best to resist that temptation. East might win the queen with the ace and return a spade, thus putting the contract in danger if it turned out that the clubs were divided unfavorably.

Folk Medicine Often Worked

A delightful book, American Folk Medicine, written by Clarence Meyer, has just been published by Thomas Y. Crowell Co.

In it Mr. Meyer points out how folk medicine survives in many parts of the United States, even in the light of highly sophisticated medical progress.

He illustrates that "simple kitchen products, garden vegetables and well-known botanicals such as caraway and fennel seed, chamomile flowers, sage, rosemary, dandelions and spices" have a place among the home remedies still found in active use.

It is astonishing how many of these family-handed-down remedies have, after many decades, been shown to have some real scientific validity.

In 1862, Dr. J.C. Gunn wrote, "The best thing I have ever known to scatter the swelling and subdue the inflammation of inflamed breasts is the application of a mink skin—a fresh one is best, but a dry one will do by being softened in warm water."

The basis for this is the fact that the mink skin retains moisture and warmth, and serves as a long-acting compress.

For a common cold it is suggested, "Before retiring drink a cup of hot water, sweetened with brown sugar and rum." Today we would call that a hot toddy, and not bad for a cold.

Some of the remedies sound more amusing than meaningful. "Slice a few onions and boil them in a pint of new milk. Stir in a sprinkle of oatmeal and very little salt. Boil until the onions are tender. Then sup rapidly and go to bed." It was thought that onions would drive away a cold.

To control fever: "Four ounces of galangal root in a quart of gin, steeped in a warm place; take often."

For chest colds: "A flannel rag, wrung out in boiling water and sprinkled with turpentine, laid on the chest, gives the greatest relief." Or, "Rub chest and throat with skunk's oil. It penetrates and relieves congestion."

For bites: "Centipede or scorpion bites, apply ammonia. Chigger bites, use butter thickened with salt. Ant bites, eau de cologne. For bee or wasp sting, apply honey."

For asthma: "The oil of goose is a good remedy but the feathers are very hurtful to those who lie upon them."

For corns: "Thrusting the toe into a lemon, to be kept on overnight, will make the removal of a corn easy."

U.S. humanist dies in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Laura Dreyfus Barney, an American humanist and specialist in education who spent most of her life in France, has died at her home in Paris at the age of 95.

Mrs. Barney, who died on Sunday, went to France as a student before World War I and served during the war with the American Ambulance Corps in Paris and the American Red Cross at Marseille.

She was an education consultant with the League of Nations and other international bodies after the war. During World War II she was one of the founders of the Institute of World Organization in Washington, represented the United States National Council of Women on the Coordination Committee for Racial Understanding and was director of training for the information service of Washington's War Hospital Committee.

Prison term meted on assault charge

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Larry Baker, 23, of Cincinnati, was sentenced Monday to 5-15 years imprisonment on an assault charge involving a policeman. Baker was accused of striking Patrolman Donald Campbell, April 18, in the head with a heavy log.

The officer was responding to a sick call in a park. Police said Baker kicked the officer before striking him. A fight broke out during the officer's investigation, police said.

If you never used electronic flash with your camera it's something you might consider. Now is the time to get one since much better pix can be made outside in sunlight by using flash fill in. Some people still think of flash shooting for indoors in bad weather. Take it from me, a good electronic flash will be the handiest photographic tool in your gadget bag. On a day with harsh sun and dark shadows the electronic flash can lighten those shadows and make the picture for you. That's called sync-sun. Now suppose you're out shooting on one of those days when there's no sun, no shadows, no nothing. Your pix on a day like that can be quite dull. But let's add an artificial sun with the electronic flash held high and off camera. We've shot ourselves a picture. That's called sync shade, and it can really save the day for you often.

For shooting inside, if those guide numbers bug you, get yourself one of the Auto-Strobonars. Those things will do tricks you never thought about. For example, they have a little electric eye on the front and when enough light comes out of the thing to make a well exposed picture it shuts itself off and puts out no more light. Just enough to make a well exposed picture, no more. Man, you just wouldn't believe some of the tricks these Auto-Strobonars will do. There's a whole family of these units and some are really fantastic. Come in and get the story on the Honeywell Auto-Strobonars.

Rowdy on-looker arrested after tavern scuffle

City police were summoned to the Emerald Inn shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday to transport a Washington C. H. resident to the hospital. The crowd which had gathered was ordered to disperse and one of the by-standers became rowdy causing his arrest.

Mike Murphy, 41½ Sycamore St., was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated for lacerations above his eye. The injury was reported to have followed a scuffle at the bar, but no charges were filed, police said.

When officers asked the crowd of on-lookers to disperse, Lemuel E. Jester, 20, of Chillicothe, became loud and profane and was arrested for disorderly conduct. He refused to go with the officers and was later charged with resisting arrest, according to the report.

Monday evening, officers assisted Robert Goldsberg, 34, of 1429 Forest St., who had injured his back. He was taken from Court Street, in front of the Courthouse, to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

The plane's landing gear and propeller were torn off in the landing. Parks received minor injuries and was released from Massillon City Hospital after treatment.

Community Chest goal to be set this week

The goal for this year's Community Chest campaign will be set this week, Otis R. Hess, the president, said Tuesday following the board meeting Monday night in the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce office.

The board had hoped to set the goal at the Monday night meeting, but it encountered some snags and had to postpone the decision.

Two youths sentenced during court hearings

Three area youths appeared in Fayette County Common Pleas Court Monday and pleaded guilty to charges filed against them. One was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory, one was sentenced to the Fayette County jail and the other will be sentenced following a pre-sentence investigation.

Judge Evelyn W. Coffman passed the sentences after each of the defendants entered a guilty plea. John H. Rossmann, assistant county prosecutor, represented the state.

James J. Cooper, 19, Harmony Rd., pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the Hendrick Grocery in Octa Aug. 5. Judge Coffman delayed imposing sentence until she receives the report of a pre-sentence investigation.

Charles Ward, 19, of 1103 Gregg St., was sentenced to six months to five years in the reformatory, but the sentence was suspended and Ward was ordered to serve 60 days in the Fayette County jail and then serve three years's probation under Sheriff Don Thompson.

Merle Jones, 19, of Washington C.H., pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery and was sentenced to one to five years in the Mansfield Reformatory.

Jones and Ward were arrested July 7, after cashing one of the bogus checks.

Investigations by Police Specialist Larry Walker of the Washington C.H. Police Department led to their arrest.

Both were represented by attorney Walter A. Seifried at the hearing.

Park accepts resignations

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Thirty-nine of President Chung Hee Park's top government and political associates resigned today in the wake of last week's assassination attempt on Park. The gesture was a symbolic one that's customary in Korea after embarrassing incidents.

The president, however, accepted the resignations of only two men: Home Minister Hong Sung-chul, whose ministry controls the police, and the chief presidential bodyguard, Park Chong-kyoo, one of his most trusted aides.

The resignations were to show that the men assumed responsibility for the failure of the security forces to prevent the attempt on Park's life.

Park named Park Kyongwon, 51, as himself a retired army general, to be home minister. Park said he would name a new chief of the presidential protective force in a few days.

The new home minister has served twice previously in that capacity and once as communications minister under President Park.

Resignations had poured in from Premier Kim Jong-pil; the 14 members of his cabinet; the top five officials of Park's ruling Democratic Republican party; the national police director; mayor and police chief of Seoul; Korea's ambassador to Japan; Park's chief secretary and chief protocol officer; four economic and political assistants; Park Chong-kyoo and eight other senior officials of the presidential protective service.

The board plans to get the budget requests from the 11 original participants for review and to reach a decision on the application by the Community Education program to participate within the next few days. When this information is all boiled down, the board will set the goal for the campaign before the end of the week unless further complications are encountered.

Money raised in the campaign (to start Sept. 16) for the Community Chest will support the programs of the participating organizations next year.

Rockefeller

possesses more administrative ability."

Following the question-and-answer session with reporters, Rockefeller was to fly to Maine to continue his vacation, going first to Bar Harbor and then to Seal Harbor.

Rockefeller, at Ford's side in the Oval Office of the President, said he came to the job in "very serious times," requiring the closest cooperation between Congress and the White House.

"They also require the dedication of every American to our common national interest," Rockefeller said. He said Ford's dedication and openness already have "reawakened faith and hope" in America.

Rockefeller said Americans have the will, determination and ability to overcome the hard realities of our times."

"I'm optimistic about the long term future," Rockefeller said.

With that, congressional leaders and the Cabinet, assembled for the nationally televised announcement, applauded the new vice president-designate.

Ford said he made the choice "after a great deal of soulsearching," after considering the advice of members of Congress and Republican leaders around the country.

"It was a tough call for a tough job," Ford said.

Ford called Rockefeller "a person whose long record of accomplishments in the government and outside is well known."

Rockefeller, 66, served 15 years as governor of New York, resigning last November to head his own commission on the problems facing America.

Rockefeller had twice run for the White House. His resignation was widely regarded as a move to position himself for a third campaign in 1976.

Before striding from the Oval Office, Rockefeller walked down the line of congressional leaders and Cabinet officers who were present for Ford's announcement, shaking hands and accepting smiling congratulations.

The ceremony was brief but carefully orchestrated, Ford entering from a side door to the Oval Office desk he assumed 11 days ago upon the resignation of Richard M. Nixon.

Before he uttered Rockefeller's name, Ford traced the record of the former governor: service in the State Department under two presidents, in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, as governor of New York longer than any other man.

"He is known across the land as a person dedicated to the free enterprise system, a person who is recognized abroad for his talents, for his dedication to making this a peaceful world," Ford said.

Describing the selection process, Ford said he had considered men — he hastily added women were considered too — in and out of government.

Store clothing rack stolen

Craig's Department Store reported to city police Monday that sometime during the past 30 days someone had stolen a rack of clothing from the store basement.

The clothes were pieces which had been left for alterations or placed in lay-a-way by customers. The total value of the items taken was estimated by store officials at nearly $500. Washington C.H. police officers are investigating.

Jess Robinette, 803 Washington Ave., reported that he and his wife were on the back porch of their home Monday evening when she decided to go to the upstairs of the home.

As she entered, a woman was descending the stairway and another was still in an upstairs bedroom. They apologized saying that they thought the house was for rent and they had come to look at it. After they left, Mrs. Robinette discovered that a ring was missing from her bedroom.

WHILE on routine patrol Monday morning, Patrolman Larry Mongold discovered that the door of the Red Rose Feed and Farm Supply Co., 926 Clinton Ave., had been pried open and an attempt had been made to open the company safe. No one was found during a search of the premises and apparently nothing of value was taken.

Other weekend thefts reported included a ladder from the John M. O'Connor residence, 622 Yeoman St.; a baby seat and tachometer from a car owned by Pamela Ferguson, White Oak Rd.; and a tape player, tapes and tachometer from an auto owned by William Pickell Jr., Ohio 207, which was parked at the Ferguson residence.

Mrs. Charles Terrell, 743 Duke Plaza, reported that the storm frame and screen had been broken out at her home, but nothing was taken, and police believe that no entry was made.
